The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Persinger. No distinction is seen between the process and apparatus disclosed by Persinger, and that recited in applicant's claims. Persinger teaches at col. 4, lines 8-11 that the exhaust gases flowed to the scrubber 18 heats the water containing ozone gas and the agent and is subsequently cooled in a cooling tower 22 before being directed to the storage tank 20. The water containing ozone gas in the process of Persinger would inherently form water vapor as it is heated by the exhaust gases in the process of Persinger, and would be condensed as it is cooled in cooling tower 22. Such condensate would inherently contain nitrate, nitrite and/or ammonium, since the process of Persinger treats exhaust gases from fossil fueled stationary engines.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In claim 1, the recitation of "said condensate solution being formed comprises water and one or more compounds selected from the group including nitrate, nitrite and ammonium" renders the scope of the claim vague and indefinite since it is a method limitation which is improper in an apparatus claim. It is well-settled that method limitations are improper in apparatus claims since it is the apparatus structure which is covered in an apparatus claims, and not the method of using such structure. In claims 1 and 20 the recitation of "selected from the group including..." is improper Markush terminology. In claim 20, it is indefinite as to what would constitute "plant care equipment".
